

Heartfelt: Supping Bovril from the Devils Cup

You can change your house, your car, your political affiliations and even your partner, but your football team is one of life's constants, right? But are the divides between football's biggest rivals Man City and Man Utd, Everton and Liverpool, Tottenham and Arsenal, Newcastle and Sunderland, Hearts and Hibs really too wide to cross? How hard would it be to change sides, to sleep with the enemy and sup Bovril from the Devils Cup? A lifelong Hibs fan takes on the challenge that TV's Faking It and Wifeswap were too scared to even contemplate, as he tries to follow his teams' hated rivals Hearts for an entire season. With gritty realism and riveting detail, Aidan Smith demonstrates the importance of loyalty in being a fan. Going undercover, he swaps his colors, drinks in rivals' pubs and even sings their songs, trying to get under the skin of the opposition.
