

Come to Order

Anyone who has ever attended a meeting knows that there is both an art and a science to ensuring an effective outcome for the attendees. Careful planning, meaningful content, and excellent execution are all required. It usually falls to the meeting organizer, facilitator, or chairperson, to ensure that all these elements are in place. This book contains practical advice on conducting Effective Meetings. It is primarily geared for Non-Profit Organizations (such as Homeowners Associations, craft guilds, and charities). However, many of its practical ideas will be useful to anyone charged with facilitating a meeting of any kind within any organization. Drawing from extensive experience, Jeff Murrell takes the reader through the various aspects of meeting planning and execution, and provides constructive suggestions on how to achieve the outcome you want.
